

Aurora Mobile's JPush SDK Passes CAICT's SDK Security Test and Evaluation

February 21, 2024 at 4:00 AM EST

SHENZHEN, China, Feb. 21, 2024 (GLOBE NEWSWIRE) -- Aurora Mobile Limited (NASDAQ: JG) ("Aurora Mobile" or the "Company"), a leading provider of customer engagement and marketing technology services in China, today announced that its push notification product JPush, specifically JPush SDK version 5.2.3 has passed the security test and evaluation in the SDK Security campaign initiated by the China Academy of Information and Communications Technology ("CAICT").

This security test and evaluation was conducted by CAICT's Security Research Institute Big Data Application and Security Innovation Lab covering five aspects including SDK basic product security, data storage security, data interaction security, key component security, and code and document security.

As a leading provider of customer engagement and marketing technology services in China, Aurora Mobile has always placed a high value on data protection, data compliance and data security. In doing so, the Company has developed a rigorous compliance review system that covers product development all the way through to launch. Additionally, Aurora Mobile is actively involved in discussions with government agencies and industry associations to help establish industry-wide regulations and standards. Going forward, Aurora Mobile will continue to work hard to protect data security and users' personal information and to promote the development of compliance in the mobile application industry.
